

A. R. HARKNESS IS NEW EDITOR OF THE DAILY

Theodore H. Harris to be Managing Editor for Session 1926-27

ANNUAL BANQUET

Duncan A. L. MacDonald
Will Occupy Newly Created Position of Sporting Editor

Andrew Ross Harkness will pilot the McGill Daily through the sixteenth year of its existence. His appointment as Editor-in-chief for the coming session was announced at the annual banquet of the Daily staff held Thursday night. The remaining members of the Managing Board will be Theodore H. Harris, Managing Editor and Duncan A. L. MacDonald, Sporting Editor.

Leo Edel was appointed News Editor for the session 1926-27. George Brown, David M. DeC. Legate, J. Gordon Nelles, C. H. Peters, Louis Schwartz, John S. Smith, were promoted to be Associate Editors. Together with James G. Brierley and C. Leslie Copland they will form the complete board.

Miles Gordon, present editor-in-chief and toastmaster explained that the office of President had been abolished by the new constitution and that the position of Sporting Editor had been created. He pointed out further that under the new arrangement the Managing Board was to consist of the Editor-in-chief, the Managing Editor and either the Sporting Editor or the News Editor at the discretion of the retiring Managing Board.

The awarding of bronze pins to those reporters who had done especially good work was carried out with due ceremony by the toastmaster who received great assistance from D. A. MacDonald. The latter made the presentations in approved French fashion. Bronze pins were awarded to the following reporters: J. Barsha G. Borwin, C. McG. Gardner, P. Matthews, J. G. Nelles, C. H. Peters, L. Schwartz, L. Shapiro, O. Silverstone, J. S. Smith and R. W. Jones.

The dinner was attended by about fifty members of the staff, included among these being Finney Fletcher, the Advertising Manager, and Scotty Bedding and Harold Arthur of the Mechanical Department of the paper.

Toast to the Daily was proposed by Ted Harris who spent his time in a "wordy" discussion. "Gus" MacDonald replied to this toast, praising during the course of his talk the excellence of the local "telephone" system.

In his own inimitable manner, Finney Fletcher proposed the toast to the Printers. He pointed out that the paper could not be printed if it were not for the printers. This toast was replied to by "Scotty" Bedding and "Bugs" Arthur, Jimmy Brierley in his particularly reserved manner paid tribute to the retiring members of the staff, Kiel Oxley, Jack Frahn and Lyman Williams.

The banquet was of a strictly informal nature. D. A. MacDonald did his best throughout the proceedings to enliven matters—not that they needed much enlivening—but anyway Gus was the cause of much mirth.

DIOCESAN COLLEGE ELECTIONS

At a meeting of the Students' Society of the Diocesan College the following officers were elected:—Pres. Students' Society, M. Lidstone; Vice-Pres., R. C. Brown; Sec., B. S. Murray; Treas., E. Hawley. The President of the Athletic Society will be N. J. O'Connor-Penton. The Pres. of the Literary and Debating Society, R. C. Brown; Pres. of the Missionary Society, E. Hawley.

MILITARY NIGHT

The Junior League are co-operating with the Military Hall Committee of The Royal Montreal Regiment by featuring Friday, April 9, as "Military Night" in their revue "Hits and Misses." By kind permission of Brig-General C. J. Armstrong, C.M.G., D.S.C., District Commander, officers attending His Majesty's Theatre, and the R. M. R. Military Ball may wear uniform.

NEW MANAGING BOARD

A. Ross Harkness, editor-in-chief; Theodore H. Harris, managing editor and Duncan A. L. MacDonald, sporting editor.

"Whats In a Name" Demands Famed Lawyer

A well-known Chicago lawyer tried to register a trade-mark "Limestone Brand" for a medicine. The examiner of trade marks refused to accept it because the medicine contained no limestone. The lawyer then wrote a letter to the examiner and some of his remarks were as follows:—
"Ivory Soap" contains no ivory
Gold Dust Washing Powder is not made from gold; Old Crow Whiskey is not distilled from crows, and there is no bull in Bull Durham. There is no milk in Milk of Magnesia. Milkweed or in cocoanuts, no cream in Cream of Tart, cold cream or chocolate creams. White Rock is water, and there is no pork in pig iron. Apple Butter is not butter, all the butter is taken out of buttermilk and there is none in buttercups or buttercups and the flies in a dairy are not butterflies.

R. V. C. '27 WINS SPEAKING CONTEST

Individual Prizes Won by Miss MacSparran and Miss Ross

The last meeting of the Delta Sigma Society of R. V. C. held in the R. V. C. on Thursday was opened by a movement by Miss Anglin to the effect that the name of Women's Intercollegiate Debating Union be retained for that society rather than that of Women's Inter-University Debating Union as suggested by Toronto. The motion was carried and the regular business of that of the inter-year public speaking was commenced.

Three speakers from each year were chosen and three from extra—R. V. C. One speaker from fourth year, Miss Griffin was unable to speak and two from extra—R. V. C. were also absent. For fourth year Miss Jenkins spoke on "What is a poor but honest girl to do?" and Miss Levickoff on "The College Success."

Both speeches were exhortations, by those who knew from four years of struggle to get as much as possible from every aspect of college life. For third Miss Ferguson on "Wolf Cubs" gave an interesting talk on the young boy scouts from practical experience as a leader; Miss Scriver spoke on Societies and stressed the M. W. S. of which she has recently been elected president; Miss MacSparran, the vice-president of the Delta Sigma, speaking on that Society, most ably explained that the letters D. S. stood for Donald Smith, Lord Strathcona. The second year was represented by Miss Wyers who spoke on "Butter" which she said bespoke the character of the consumer in the way it was served; Miss Languedoc on "Carpets" dwelt on the growing precociousness which grew out of small rugs on highly polished floors; Miss Ross on "St. Patrick's Day" wherein she showed that St. Patrick did not belong entirely to the Irish. The first year speakers' unfortunately chose ambitious subjects which could not be adequately dealt with in the allotted five minutes. Miss Benning on "William III Prince of Orange," Miss Schoolman on "Politics" and "Miss Ellis on "Buying Canadian goods and encourage home trade."

The cup won by the best team went to third year; the first individual prize to Miss MacSparran, the second to Miss M. Ross and honourable mention to Misses Scriver, Ferguson and Drummond of the M.S.P.E. Miss Drummond was the only extra—R. V. C. speaker and spoke excellently on "Adventure." The judges Miss MacLaren

HONOUR ROLL SENT TO NEXT OF KIN

Relatives of Old Boys Killed in Action Get Book 363 IN ALL

Biographies and Photographs of all Enlisted McGill Men in it

The next of kin of all those McGill men who were killed or died on Service during the Great War, 363 in all are soon to receive a copy of McGill's official Honour Roll. The Roll will take the form of a large handsome book containing short biographies of all who served with portraits of those who made the supreme sacrifice. Sir Arthur Currie has written a foreword to the volume and a short history of McGill in the war has been prepared by Dr. Nicholson.

McGill sent over 3059 men including undergraduates, graduates and past students of whom 363 never returned. Of students actually studying at the time 1061 went over; graduates who went to France numbered 1540.

Two of Canada's V. C.'s Lance-Corporal P. Fisher, 15 and Capt. F. A. C. Scriver, Med '05 came from McGill. The total number of decorations amount to 791 a record of which McGill might well be proud.

Six hundred and thirty-seven of the one thousand copies being printed that is those not being disposed of as described above are being placed on sale. The price will be about $7.00 a piece it is said which does not nearly cover the cost of printing which is in the neighbourhood of $12. Applications have already been received for 300 copies.

The arduous task of compiling the necessary data for the book was begun over six years ago. Biographies and photographs had to be secured, and frequently it was extremely difficult to find addresses of relatives of those who had gone overseas. Every thing has now been done however but read the proofs and very shortly the volume will be completed.

Following is a summary of those who enlisted—the number who were killed and the number who were decorated.

MACCABAEANS TO HOLD LADIES MEETING SOON

The next meeting of the MacCabaean Circle will take place tomorrow afternoon in the Lounge Room of the Union. It is announced that this meeting will be entirely in charge of the lady members of the Circle. Miss Florence R. Kaplan will read a paper on "Yehuda Halevi" whilst Miss Florence Louis will read a paper on "Jewish Influence in Folk-Lore." Miss Rose Lagare will render vocal selection and Miss Regina Schoolman recitation.

The executive requests that those in charge of distributing tickets for the dinner dance on March 27th will please report at the meeting.

The total coal production of Alberta mines during 1925 amounted to 5,883,394 tons, an increase of 679,681 tons over the preceding year. The figures were as follows: Domestic coal 3,156,359 tons; sub-bituminous, 581,885; bituminous, 2,145,200.

Miss Baker and Miss Stevens judged entirely in accordance with the feeling of the meeting and many thanks are due to them. The meeting was adjourned and tea ever-welcome, was served.

Gen. J. McBrien To Speak At Y.M.C.A. Forum

Major-General J.H. McBrien, C.B., C.M.G., D.S.O., Chief of the General Staff, Ottawa, will be the speaker at the Young Men's Forum Central Y.M.C.A. on Sunday afternoon 21st March at 3.15. His subject will be—"Defensive Measures which are being taken by the leading Nations of the World." Major-General McBrien has had a long and distinguished career as a soldier. He served in many capacities during the Great War, and in September 1916 was promoted to the command of the twelfth Canadian Infantry Brigade with the rank of Brigadier-General. He was twice wounded, once severely, six times mentioned in despatches, and awarded the C.B., C.M.G., D.S.O., and the Bar to the D.S.O. He was also appointed Chevalier of the Legion of Honour. Shortly after the signing of the Armistice General McBrien was elected to represent Canada on two War Office Committees, one to consider the report on the best post-war organization for the British Army, and the other on the Imperial Defence. On the organization of the Canadian Department of National Defence he became Chief of Staff, an appointment which he still holds. In September 1923 General McBrien attended the Imperial Conference as Chief Adviser on defence matters to the Prime Minister. In October 1924 he proceeded to Japan on the invitation of the Japanese Government, and attended the Grand Manoeuvres of the Japanese Army. On account of the unusual interest in his address the Forum Committee has decided to open the meeting to both men and women on this occasion.

RADIO ASSOCIATION HEARD DR. BIELER

Subject:—Short-wave Wireless From the Stars

At Thursday's meeting of the Radio Association an illustrated address on "Short-wave wireless from the Stars" was delivered by Dr. E. S. Becker. He commenced by saying that vibrations of broadcast wavelength could not reach the earth owing to the Heavyside layer of ionized air which is equal to 12 meters of copper in absorbing waves. But natural waves such as light can penetrate this layer in the same way as X-rays penetrate metals. At this point some interesting slides were shown including Greenwich, Yerkes, and Mr. Wilson observations, and ancient and modern telescopes. Dr. Bieler now described the stellar spectroscopy which is instrumental in finding the heat and metallic composition of the stars. In the following slides the Fraunhofer lines on the solar spectrum were shown. In the nineteenth century Secchi classified stars into four groups, their spectra varying from blue in the hottest stars to red in the coolest. The hottest stars consist entirely of hydrogen, but on cooling their spectra became more complicated. At their origin stars are red and large, but as they condense they grow hotter and become blue, finally becoming red again as their heat is dissipated. Michelson was the first to measure the diameter of stars, and Doppler calculated their movement, after finding that approaching stars have a redder spectrum than departing ones. Double stars show this well, and in some cases it can be verified by photography. Einstein recently said that the spectrum varied with the mass.

SCIENCE FACULTY TRACK CHAMPIONS

Irvine Equals Canadian Record for 60 Yards

CLOSE RACES

Montabone, M.A.A.A., is Individual Star of Evening

Last night, the McGill Inter-faculty Indoor meet for 1926 was held in conjunction with the City Indoor meet in the Craig Street Drill Hall. No records were broken during the evening but Irvine in the 60 yards tied the Canadian record for the event.

Competition was fairly keen in all but one event, which fact contributed considerably, to the success of the meet, which has not been held since 1919. Montabone was the star of the meet winning every event in which he was entered.

Science with a total of 15 points doubled the points of the second faculty Medicine, who had 8. Arts with 7 points was third while Commerce and Dentistry managed to tally 5 and 3 points respectively. The results are as follows:

2 Miles Interfaculty
1. King	11.9 1-5
600 Yards Open
1. Montabone	1:20 1-5
2. Alrey	1:22 1-5
3. Barrie	1:23 1-5
60 Yards Open (Final)
1. Cannon	6 4-5
2. Bain	6 4-5
3. O'Neil	6 4-5
1000 Yards Interfaculty
1. Brown	2:45
2. Solomon	2:45
3. Thompson	2:45
1000 Yards Open
1. Rubin	2:25 2-5

THEOLOGS UNITE TO HOLD BANQUET

Co-operative Convocation at Emmanuel Church

For the first time in the history of students in Theology a co-operative banquet is to be held between the four theological colleges, namely Presbyterian Wesleyan, Diocesan and Congregational. The banquet will probably be held at the Queens Hotel on the night of April 14. There will be about seventy students present and it has been decided that the banquet held by the theologs is to be strictly an undergraduate one and for this reason no professors are to be invited, those in charge of affairs are quite confident of the success of this co-operative banquet.

For the first time also since the Union of the churches only one Convocation will be held for the three theological colleges concerned, the Wesleyan, Presbyterian and Congregational. The Convocation will be held on the evening of April 15 at Emmanuel Church. As this is the first convocation in which the three colleges have united a great deal of interest has been aroused. The Diocesan College is however not to take part in this.

WINTER OUTING CLUB ELECTS NEW OFFICERS

Activities of Club Very Encouraging in Past Season

BRIEF SURVEY

Suggestions Put Forward for Betterment of Club Standing in Meets

Winding up what proved to be a most encouraging season, the Winter Outing Club held its annual meeting to elect its officers and formally close the season. W. B. Thompson, Dave Walsh and H. S. Maxwell were elected Captain, Manager and Assistant-Manager of the Club respectively—the Captain being elected by acclamation.

A brief survey of the past season was given by the chairman, and it was considered that the past season was, if nothing else, at least very encouraging. The members had placed in many of the meets and had won almost every event save one in the Divisional Meet held lately in Montreal.

The season was begun with the sending of two men to Quebec for the meet there, and both of them placed. W. B. Thompson winning the Cross Country Ski Run and Jimmy Martin coming second in the jumping contests, with Thompson trailing him to place third in this event. The meet was lost by the narrow margin of three points to Loyola College, which had two men entered for every event. At the next meet at Lake Placid, the Club placed fourth—at which meet Dick Bolton, Forest Rutherford, and Fred Taylor scored points.

The club participated in many Montreal Meets, and were generally successful in these, at that of the Montreal Ski Club at the Mount Royal Race, one event was won by W. B. Thompson. At Newport, Me. Laughlin placed sixth which is considered excellent considering the fact that there were entered in that event some of the best jumpers in the Eastern States. At the Montreal Ski Club Efficiency Contest, Costigan and Rutherford placed first and second respectively. Again at the Divisional Meet held here, the Winter Outing Club swept all others aside and took the meet by the astounding score of 55-5. Here almost every event except the one-mile was taken by the Club. At the final Union Meet of the intercollegiate Winter Sports, at Dartmouth, New Hampshire scored 25 points; Dartmouth 28; and McGill 18.

SOCIAL SERVICE WORK DISCUSSED

M.W.S.S. Representatives Enlightened by Miss Reid's Address Yesterday

At the tea given yesterday afternoon in the Strathcona Hall by the School for Social Workers an opportunity was afforded to the representatives from the various departments and respective societies included in the M.W.S.S. to become acquainted with the members of the school and their work.

After tea was served an enlightening address was given by Miss May Reid, professor of case work and supervisor of field work in the School for Social Workers. Miss Reid chose as her subject "The place of the School for Social Workers in the University." The speaker opened her address by saying that the chief activity of the School was thinking seriously on social problems. The aim of the social workers was formerly to help people in trouble. Now, its work is to help people out of trouble and finally to prevent people from getting into trouble. "Normal people in abnormal conditions must be assisted as well as abnormal people" stressed the speaker. She went on to mention the changes being made, for example tenement house reform, child labour and playground movements.

With regard to the historical background, Miss Reid declared that the desire for training an education grew out of the need that the social workers themselves felt. A scientific mind was thought necessary, one to classify information and draw up conclusions. Moreover, this knowledge was needed to give the students poise, faith and confidence in their work and, in addition, tolerance in their viewpoint so they would be worthy to help their fellow-men.

MONTREAL, DAY, MARCH 1926.

THE VOICE OF THE TURTLE

With the appearance of the "Mongrel Daily" on the campus, every student suffers a shock as the realization is forced upon him that Spring is here, and that examinations are in the offing. In fact, if the authorities at the observatory are correct, tomorrow is the first day of spring and the young man's fancy may be presumed to be lightly turning in the usual direction.

Spring has been charming the imagination of mankind from time immemorial. "Rise up, my love, my fair one, and come away," sang the wisest of earthly kings, "for, lo, the winter is past, the rain is over and gone; the flowers appear on the earth; the time of the singing of birds is come, and the voice of the turtle is heard in our land."

But the irony of it! The tragedy of it! We students, at that age when the romanticism of spring makes its greatest appeal to us, are wedded to our text books, and for the next six weeks at least must stifle our natural impulses.

How much better off is every one else in the world? To the house wife, in glorious agony over the spring cleaning, it is the happiest time of the year. The urgings of nature are given free reign, and for a week she glories in the smell of new paint, fresh wallpaper, and old cobwebs. To the city dweller it is the end of coal bills, or shovelling snow, of thawing out water pipes and of firing furnaces, and in his new found freedom, he gets out his seed catalogues, alluring in their promise of flowers and filling the heart of the garden enthusiast with the joys of contemplated digging and planting. Or he gets out his clubs and practices putting in the back yard,—when he is not beating the carpet.

But to the student—to the student it is merely the beginning of a season of more intensive plugging, unless he is one of those rare mortals who have worked wisely and well all year. For the first few days many will fall under the spell of the fair enchantress, and will merely be filled with a hazy curiosity as to whether he should work or not. Recently a student was heard to wonder mildly if he could get through if he did not study from now till exams. But that spirit will only last for a few days and then, overcome by anxiety for the future, all doubt will be swept away and he will know that he must study. The spectre of examinations haunts him and he must heed.

MORRIS HOLT

The Daily joins the undergraduate body in mourning the loss of Morris Holt, who was one of our finest and best-liked reporters. Morris was a promising student, having come to the university with a scholarship from Lennoxville. He was an outstanding swimmer and diver, and last fall became a member of the University's Historical Club.

"Lampy" Has Suspended Publication

(From the Harvard Crimson)

The Harvard Lampoon has suspended publication for an indefinite period. Several causes are given for Lampy's demise. It was not generally known that the cosy little home of the publication was not only built on sand but was built on a flimsy bridge over the same underground river which is causing so much trouble to the building of McKinnon Hall. Since every year the spring freshets add to the instability of the edifice, the editors have not felt it worth while to pay off the huge mortgage on the building. This mortgage has been foreclosed.

In the editorial columns the Crimson comments on Lampy's demise as follows:

DE MORTUIS NIHIL NISI BONUM

Life, after all, is but a succession of surprises, a concatenation of cataclysms—so the Crimson is not as disconcerted by the sudden demise of Harvard's humorous periodical—the Lampoon—as it would be had it less experience in the ways of the world. Yet in a university so much a part of American tradition the death of any particularly notorious feature of university life must occasion serious and thoughtful comment.

For fifty years "Lampy" has done its best to satiate the appetites of lovers of Punchian wit. And now that the gods of finance have doomed it to oblivion, the Crimson will not be alone in regretting the passage of a bird so rare as the famed ibis of Mt. Auburn Street. For the patriarchal purveyors of discretion whose efforts at enforcement have recently disturbed these young Bachelors in their better moments will feel the loss even more keenly than Lampy's more firmly established contemporaries. And many a lonely subscriber whose diet for

COLLEGE COMMENT

A PLAY BY O'NEILL

The Dartmouth:—Were we one of those gifted and public-spirited millionaires worshipped so by the materialists, we would bring to Hanover that play of Eugene O'Neill's called "The Great God Brown." We should like to sit in an audience of Dartmouth undergraduates at that play, both to watch the perceptive ones writhe and to enjoy the bovine indifference of the unperceptive.

The theme of "The Great God Brown" is that those coincidences of ooze, becomes called man, which walk erect and with an air of propriety over Mother Earth often are two people. That is two people within the same coincidence.

One person is the man as he knows himself, and as Mother Earth knows him. The other is the man as he makes himself appear to others. (The question of which is the better man is a moot one, and well worthy of debate. This suggestion is offered gratis to the Forensic Union.) When the character of the play acts as he really is, and as Mother Earth knows him, he is unmasked. But he acts as he wants others to believe he is, then he wears a mask.

The plot of O'Neill's play is incidental to his theme. It would have centered around the triangle were it not that two members of the triangle have dual personalities—which makes the eternal triangle an eternal pentagon.

We college boys are a smooth outfit as the vocabulary of the higher education would have it.

We are liberal thinkers, we are out-door men, we cherish and respect worthy and high ideals. These bright Sunday afternoons we are honest and years has consisted of the Transcript, the Atlantic, and the Lampoon will turn in desolation to muter memories of merrier days.

sincere with 1929. We are tolerant. We exemplify the hope of America the younger generation. We have a perfect code of values. We make rules and observe them scrupulously. We never criticize without good reason. We consider both sides of questions fairly. We are above personal feelings. We properly subordinate athletics to intellectual accomplishment. We respect a good student as an equal for his ability.

BALLADE OF DEAD HEROES

Dust off a niche in the Hall of Fame.
Fresh greatness bids ye prepare the way:

To the lustrous scroll add another name,
On another brow set a wreath of bay;

For the world delights in a hip-throovy
And is practiced well in the ringing cheer—

Ye few celebrities come to stay—
Oh, where are the Heroes of yester-year

How pale those stars, how dull and tame
The Anns and Elizas that long held sway:

Doc Cook, Lil Russell, and Jesse James—
As dead now as Kipling and Rabelais

What happened to Charlie Ross anyway?
To Thaw, Ole Hanson, and Pelletier?

Bill Sunday and Ponzi—where, where are they?
Oh, where are the Heroes of yester-year?

With our present great can it be the same?
With Come and Rabbitt and F. P. A?

Ah yes, my dear, though it seems a shame,
Not even a Ford can run for aye.

Too soon will our young wag their heads and say,
"Debs? Hearst? Babe Ruth? My, you're talking queer."

So the glory of man runs to quick decay.
Oh, where are the Heroes of yester-year?

THE CRITIC

With so many professors deploring the intellectual deficiency of the modern student, there comes to print scores of protests. It is said that the days of bee-hive skirts when men couldn't see what they were getting were much better than the present jazz days when everyone is dancing to lost chords. Personally, I would like to call those professors a sort of donkey, but the proximity of examinations forbids.

Perhaps the greatest sufferers of the ignorance charge are in that mass of chlorophyll known as Freshmen. "Dumb?" Possibly, but what else shall we term the Sophomore who courts the same co-ed all year, the Junior who has one for every lecture, and the Senior who gets a marriage license with his degree.

If we are only as good as our ancestors, a little reflection will tell us we are as good as dead. If we are worse, let's send a petition to St. Peter for lenient entrance requirements. If we are better, let's do away with prohibition. (Cheers must be sanctioned by the Student Council)

Our predecessors learned by being told; we learn by being shown; all on account of Missouri, no doubt. To educate by sight is the justification of certain translation assignments, the cinematograph, the Daily Mirror, beauty contests, and the rush for front seats. I dread to prophesy the translation which will come when we get our eyes full.

For those who still insist we have a low mentality (Prof. Gilson and others), I submit the following problems, each to be answered with two minutes thought:

1) A man is locked in an air-tight bathroom; the water is mounting higher and higher; when he has reached his neck, he discovers a window in one corner of the ceiling. What is the best way he can save himself?

2) A salesman sells a pair of shoes for five dollars, is given a ten dollar bill, which he changes next door. The customer gets his change and leaves. Soon the neighbor discovers the bill is counterfeit and the salesman makes it good. How much is lost?

3) A church attendant finding the sermon dull, goes to sleep, and dreams he is a Royalist in the days of the French Revolution. He is chased by Liberals and about to be guillotined. Just as the blade descends a neighbor wakes him, as the sermon is over. The man opens his eyes and drops dead a moment later. What's wrong with the story?

The above conundrums were given me by a friend who has been dissecting and studying the brains of animals and who tried the three tests disaster-

The King of Clubs now smiles with glee
For quickly saving 43.

GYMNASTS TO MEET U. OF P. HERE TONIGHT

Tonight at the Westmount Y.M.C.A., the McGill gym squad will meet the U. of Pennsylvania acrobats in the first international intercollegiate gym fixture event to be held in Montreal. The McGill team will consist of Mackay, Becker, Consiglio, Harris and Pacaud. This team is the same that competed in the intercollegiate meet, except that Pacaud replaces Caorn. The Philadelphians, who arrived seven strong this morning, are considered a very strong team, so a very good exhibition ought to be witnessed tonight. Tickets will be on sale at the Westmount Y.M.C.A. for 55 cents and 35 cents (for Juveniles). The meet will start at 8 p.m.

DENTS TO BATTLE COMMERCIALS AT FORUM MONDAY

(By Gridiron Gus)
Somehow or other several members of the Faculty of Dentistry who played hockey from time to time have got it into their heads that there are just a little bit better than several of the members of the School of Commerce, who also, it appears, play hockey from time to time. There has been considerable discussion (but no hard feelings) over this particular point, and now some genius has come to the rescue with the suggestion that a game be staged between the two rival factions as the best means of ascertaining who is good and who is rotten.
It is not definitely known yet where this game is to be played but it is more than likely that it will take place Monday afternoon at the Forum. It is also stated that the losers will pay for the rink, which rather spices the program as the Educational Film remark.
Two very imposing line-ups feature Monday's struggle. Dents will be led by no less a personage than the lady Roy. McMahon who will be back at his old place at defense. It was rumoured that Roy would have played forward if he thought he could last more than three minutes at a stretch there. Jack Lynch will in all probability play centre and will be the greatest source of worry to the Commerce outfit. The hard working and well-meaning Bobbie Bell has also signified his intention of playing as has Tiny Thompson, Kenzie Beaton and McKinnon. A man named Richardson will be in the nets for Dentistry.
Commerce has a strong forward line in St. Germain, Tommy Arnold and Trainor, St. Germain in particular will give the Dentistry goaler all kinds of trouble. Jack Mickles will in all probability feature on the defense, having for his partner Allan who is also considered one of the best. Quinn, who got such a rousing reception in the press for his spectacular game in goal's early this season will perform for the Commercials.
Take care of the week-ends and the weeks will take care of themselves.

as well as the movement and this was proved this year in the case of the companion of Sirius which was found to have 250 times the density of Platinum.
The whirling movement of nebulae is shown by their corkscrew form. Their distance was hard to find for some time but by observing the characteristics of certain component stars the nebula in Orion was found to be 130 light years distant, while that in Andromeda is a million. These are all the radiations we know at present to reach as X-rays are shut out by the atmosphere, but as the wavelength decreases the waves get more penetrating. Sir Ernest Rutherford in the Physics Building proved the existence of waves having a wavelength of 1-250,000,000 part of an inch. These are found by balloons to be more prevalent in the upper atmosphere and come probably from nebulae, being caused by the conversion of mass into energy according to Einstein's theory. Dr. Bieler concluded by saying that this theory gave a very much greater age to the stars and in this immense time another solar system with planets and animate beings may conceivably have been evolved.

NEWS EDITOR

Leo Edel, appointed News Editor of Daily for 1926-27.

Lon Chaney At Capitol Next Week

Creeps; thrills; that run up and down the spine—gasp of subdued terror—all this you will find in "The Black Bird" which will open up at the Capitol next Sunday. And if you want a lovely little love story—a pure flower blooming in the darkness—then see the romance of Lon Chaney and Doris Lloyd.

It's a creepy picture—a thrilling master play, "The Black Bird," but like a silver thread, a wonderful love story runs through it. There's a crook who is reclaimed by love—after terrorizing half of London with one of the strangest masquerades ever conceived in an author's vivid brain. It is a picture every one should see. Then too there is beautiful Renee Adoree in the role of a French music hall girl. Lon Chaney plays a dual role—that of a creepy criminal and also as a crippled mission worker who at times is almost a saint to look on. Others of importance in the cast include Doris Lloyd, who wears some clever gowns in her role as a music hall singer; Owen Moore, a polished crook of the upper crust of society; and Polly Moran in a clever and funny role as a tattered denizen of Limehouse.

In brief "The Black Bird" is a crook story of the world's most notorious quarter and contains melodrama, intrigue, love, hate, revenge, thrills and is guaranteed to give you the thrill that comes once in a lifetime.

A well chosen Overture by the Famous Capitol Orchestra under Jerry Shea directing; A delighted comedy; News Reel and other short subjects of interest will also be featured on the bill.

On the stage Miss Jane Cary, Canada's finest soprano who has just completed a most sensational European tour, and who so delighted audiences at the Capitol last Sunday when she made her first Canadian appearance in three years, will be heard in three years, will be heard in selections from her repertoire. On the screen will also be featured Dr. Lee De Forest's latest invention "Phonofilm" radio talking and singing pictures featuring "The Radio Franks," the world's famous harmony singers. A comedy, News Reel and other items will complete a most enjoyable programme.

The School was accordingly accepted in the university since the modern university like the medieval was so called because it embraced a universe of learning—not an integral function in society. The university is now in a transitional stage where it is assimilating and being assimilated by society.

The speaker went on to mention the changes in curriculum. There is now a tendency to get away from the purely scholastic exclusiveness in general learning to the subjects which deal with present day problems of learning to the subjects which deal with present day problems of learning. For instance, some universities have the study of advertising psychology. "The Bachelor of Science course in some universities is rivaling and even surpassing the B. A. course" declared Miss Reid. The age of specialization is upon us. It is necessary to turn to educational institutions for specializing in socially desirable subjects. "The merely cultured type is no longer the socially desirable type to-day" was the speaker's statement. "The man at home with Homer and Horace is expected to know contemporary literature and is then able to contribute in this field and be socially valuable because of his knowledge. socially desirable types are productive types—such as the inventor, the scientist, the teacher and the writer. The speaker remarked that, doubtless in the next fifty years the university curriculum will be obliged to stand the test whether it is socially valuable, and those courses which cannot prove themselves to be so will find it more difficult to retain their place in the university and social

CHORAL SOCIETY ELECTIONS HELD

A. S. Allen Elected Pres; Miss Frances James Vice-Pres.

On Thursday night the McGill Choral Society closed its activities for the year at a meeting held in Strathcona Hall.

The President R. J. Smith was in the chair and when he called the meeting to order about 9 p.m., there was a fair representation of the members present. Mr. Smith gave a brief sketch of the activities of the Society during the past year before proceeding with further business. On the whole he considered that which there had been many drawbacks, yet the past year had been a very successful one. Special mention was made of the part which Miss Frances James had contributed toward making the concert the success it was from the advertising and financial standpoint.

The report of the treasurer, Mr. A. S. Allen was a most interesting one—showing how well the society had fared this year in comparison with the efforts of the previous year, receipts being over $100, better than at the first annual concert. It was a most optimistic report which augurs well for the future of the Society.

Mr. Clapperton under whose excellent leadership the society has been during the past year, stressed the need of untiring energy on the part of the members to keep the annual concert up to the highest degree of musical efficiency possible.

It was suggested that more publicity might be given the work during the coming year and that more students and faculty members might be added to the ranks of the Society.

At the conclusion of the election of officers for the coming year, an enjoyable social evening followed, refreshments being served at the end of the evening.

The election of officers resulted as follows:

President — A. S. Allen
Vice-President — Miss Frances James
Recording Secy. — Miss I. DeBlois
Corres. Secy. — Mr. A. M. Wooten
Treasurer — Miss Muriel Ball
